

NEW COMMERCIAL AGENT DEPARTS

Edward V. Morgan Bound for the East.

NOTED ATHLETES IN PARTY

Washingtonian to Be Stationed at Dahly, Manchuria—A Harvard Graduate.

Edwin V. Morgan, one of the popular members of Washington society, left the city today for San Francisco, from where he is to sail February 27 for the East, having been appointed commercial agent at Dahly, in Manchuria. Accompanying Mr. Morgan in an unofficial capacity are two prominent young men who were noted athletes at Harvard University, and who have been attracted to the Orient by the exciting events there. They are Barrett Wendell, a son of the English professor at Harvard University, and Edward Bowditch, Jr., of Albany, a nephew of General Oliver, the Assistant Secretary of War. Wendell was the captain of the Harvard baseball team of 1902. Bowditch was one of the star football players. His departure will be a source of regret to Harvard athletes, as Bowditch had been elected to serve as head coach for this year's team. Both these young men are graduates of Harvard Law School, and were studying law in Boston when they were seized with the war fever.

SYMPHONY PERFORMS ADMIRABLE PROGRAM

Heard With Great Pleasure By a Brilliant
Audience—M. Thibaud
Well Received.

A program distinguished for seriousness, breadth and rare beauty, and a performance of that program, according to the highest standards of symphonic music, marked yesterday's concert of the Washington Symphony Orchestra. The occasion was signal triumph for everyone in the organization, as the heartiest applause of an exceptionally distinguished audience testified. But an equal delight was provided by the soloist, Jacques Thibaud, violinist, who performed Max Bruch's "Concerto" and three lesser numbers with extraordinary finish and fine feeling.

For the orchestra the mere enumeration of these numbers is sufficient to indicate the admirable qualities of the program—the selections were the prelude to the second act of Humperdinck's "Koulsrinder," thus performed for the first time in Washington; the rich and impressive unfinished symphony of Schubert; the four numbers of the Gipsy Suite by Edward German. In executing such a program the Symphony surpassed itself. No number of the four requires more solidly of tone and fine control than Schubert's splendid but unfinished symphony. Yet the orchestra has never done anything else so well. The accompaniment to M. Thibaud was admirable—restrained, well controlled, and sympathetic.

M. Thibaud charmed by virtue of a wonderfully sweet violin tone and a characteristic French temperament. His selections included the Bruch "Concerto," a favorite with violinists; the familiar air for the G string by Bach, and the "Airs Russes" of Wieniawski. For an encore he played another Bach number, a gavotte. Tone is this performer's chief merit, and a part, at least, of that tone depends on the possession of an extremely fine instrument. The fact that M. Thibaud is also excellently trained and by nature a fine musician.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.

Justice Barnard has granted the motion for a new trial in the case of Melville D. Hensley against the Mercantile Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa. At the trial which ended last Monday the jury returned a verdict in favor of Hensley for $18,000. John Ridout and Hayden Johnson are counsel for the Mercantile Trust Company.

NEGRO DROPS DOWN STAIRS.

A misstep at the top of a flight of stairs in the dark early last evening, and William Bell, a fifty-year-old negro, fell to the bottom of the flight. Bell was taken from his home at 513 Freeman's Alley, to the Homeopathic Hospital, where it was said he had injured himself internally.

SWINDLERS AT WORK.

"We are seeking financial aid for the army of Baltimore's clerks, who have been thrown out of employment in the middle of the winter by the disaster of Monday." This is the statement of two men who are swindling Washington merchants. A general alarm and description of the pair has been sent out, both here and in Baltimore.

WANTS BETTER ROADS IN ALASKA TERRITORY

Senate Committee Will Report Special Legislation—How Cost Will Be Met.

The Senate Committee on Territories will report some special legislation for better roads and transportation facilities in Alaska. Speaking of this matter this morning, a member of the committee said:

"The greatest need of Alaska is good roads. These they have got to have, and the committee is considering some means to give them to the country. What will probably be done is that the money received from licenses, which amounts to something like a hundred thousand dollars a year, will be put into roads. The cost of building wagon roads is great, though, of course, the cost varies greatly with the locality and the difficulties encountered. With good roads the progress of the territory should be great."

ASKS SUPREME COURT TO DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP

D. M. Anderson has begun proceedings in the District Supreme Court against John Mariner and James P. Mariner for a dissolution of partnership and an accounting.

The parties to the litigation are engaged in business at 515 Eleventh Street northwest, under the firm name of D. M. Anderson, Mariner & Son. Mr. Anderson contends that the defendants have practically forced him out of the business, and are depriving him of a share of the profits of the firm.

F. S. Key Smith is named as counsel for the complainant.

OPPOSED TO EXTENSION OF MASSACHUSETTS AVE.

The District Commissioners have made unfavorable report on Senate bill 3331, "for the extension of Massachusetts Avenue northward, between Joliet Street and Fairview Heights subdivision." The Commissioners say that while the extension would be beneficial, it is not necessary, and the present condition of the District finances does not warrant the expenditure.
